BACK TO THE SHIP ON A WAVE. The stanch old hermaphrodite Yankee brig Frekericks Schepp, reached New York last Friday from Delaware Breakwater in tow of the tug Ivanhoe, looking like almost anything except nerself. It has been told how she got mixed up with the Porto Rican hurricane of the South Atlantic coast on August 17; how she was knocked down on her beam ends, and how her skip per, Captain Engstrem, an American citizen of Swedish birth, was forced to cut away her masts to right her. What happened thereafter the skipper told upon his arrival. Her two masts way of getting them back. There was only one spar aboard, a fore yard, which was lashed to the deck. skipper stuck this through the fore hatch, making it fast to the keelson and a point near the knighthead; and equipped the mast with a trysail. Then he lashed three beamtogether with ropes and braids and made a mainmast of it. To this he bent another bit of canvas. Finally, he made a mizzen mast of a spar used in the little square-rigger's yawl, and then tried to crawl back to New York. He was masquerading as a sort of schooner. Easterly winds struck him and drove him 500 miles in seven day .. The four-masted schooner Governor Ames came along and sent a boat to nim, offering to take off him and his crew. He admitted that he looked queer, but said he felt all right and was much obliged, thank you, but thought he could make somewhere some time even under his peculiar rig. A steamship with a kind-hearted skipper also stop-ped and asked him if he didn't want to go home. He said he didn't, and the steamship went on. Then a northeast-er sprung up and things happened that only occur on hermaphrodite brigs. A sea rose to windward-which is the proper place for it to rise-NDS OF LIQUOES.

iibson's XX, XXX, XXXX

Able Seaman Charles Johnson was in the way of the sea. A moment later ie was in a seaway. The skipper prepared to lower a boat. It was hardly out on the davits when Johnson came aboard again, so the skipper declares, on a returning sea. Another cres' roar ed athwart the ship and selected Johnson as its plaything. The skipper look-ed surprised and was meditating wheth er or not he should lower a boat when Johnson, somewhat fatigued and moist, but smiling, tumbled over the bulwarks The skipper decided that Johnson was a victim of the miracle habit and that it was best to let the elements take charge of him entirely. So when the third wave-far be it from the conscientions mind of an ultramarine reporter to question the word of an honest deepsea navigator-aboard and carried away the miraculous Mr. Johnson the skip per simply waited confidently for the next wave to bring him back. And it did. If you don't believe it, go and Alexandria Fertilizer ask Capt. Engstrom, who will be in port until the Schepp refits. HORRIBLE TALE OF THE SEA. The British steamer Woodruff, Captain Milburn, arrived at Charleston, S. C., from Hamburg on Saturday. On August 31, two bundred and fifty miles south of Charleston, the Woodruff pick ed up Maurice Anderson and Good mun Thomsen, survivors of the Nor weigan bark Drot, wrecked August 15 off the Florida coast. The Drot was bound from Pascagoula to Buenos Ayres. Anderson is a raving maniac and his companion is shockingly mutilated from bites of the crazed man. Thomsen tells a dreadful story. The captain of the Drot and seven seamen were swept overboard and lost in the recent hurricane. The mate and seven other men put to sea on a raft made of decking. The raft parted soon after and the mate and one man were separated from the others. The mate's companion was landed a: Philadelphia by the German steamer Titania on August 22 Ho stated that the mate com-mitted suicide. Of the six men on the other part of the raft one became crazed from exposure and jumped into the sea. Two others exhausted from suffering fell overboard and were lost. Anderson, Thomasen and a German seaman drew lots as to which should be eaten as none of them had had a mouthful since they took to the raft. The lot fell to the German, He was killed and the blood was sucked from his veius by the two survivors. Soon after Anderson lost his reason and savagely attacked his only com panion. Thomasen's breast and face were bitten in several places, chunks of good size being torn out. Both men are now at the city hospital and the Norweian consul has taken the case in hand. Thomasen is a native of Stevanger, Norway.
